What cookies are

Cookies are small text files placed on your device when you visit a website. They are widely used to make websites work securely and efficiently.

How we use cookies

We only use strictly necessary cookies required for the operation and security of this website.

These cookies are essential to:

- enable form submissions
- maintain secure sessions
- protect against malicious activity
- ensure the site functions correctly

We do not use:

- analytics cookies
- marketing or advertising cookies
- tracking pixels
- third-party profiling cookies

Because only strictly necessary cookies are used, your consent is not required under UK law.

Examples of cookies used

The exact cookies may change as the website evolves, but typically include:

- session cookies (to maintain secure connections)
- security cookies (to protect forms and prevent abuse)

These cookies usually expire at the end of your browsing session or shortly afterwards.

Managing cookies

You can control or delete cookies through your browser settings at any time. Please note that disabling strictly necessary cookies may prevent parts of the website from working properly.
